FEE STRUCTURE PLUS®

You work hard for your legal fees. It's time to let your fees work hard for you.

Structures, the leading provider of proprietary structured settlement solutions in the United States, has developed Fee Structure Plus® (FSP), an innovative tax planning program for attorneys working under contingency fee agreements.

This unparalleled program from Structures offers trial attorneys a unique alternative to traditional structured attorney fee options by now allowing them to have their contingency-based fees placed in a program that will enjoy market-related returns on the full value of their contingency fees, completely tax-deferred.

The introduction of Fee Structure Plus represents the next era of structured attorney fees.

Innovative Investment and Tax Planning Solutions for Plaintiff's Attorneys.

THEN & NOW

Industry-leading, fee structure programs to meet your unique needs.

The tax court decision Childs v. Commissioner, affirmed by the 11th Circuit in 1996, was a watershed event that gave attorneys the ability to defer taxes on contingency fees received as periodic payments.<sup>1</sup>

Identifying the Limitations of Traditional Fee Structure Programs

The Childs case provided some measure of tax relief for contingency fee attorneys whose income may fluctuate. Until now, fee planning options under this decision were limited to fixed-rate annuities. From a timing and security standpoint, these fixed-rate funding vehicles are unique, offering broad design flexibility and a proven history of performance through both rising and falling economic cycles. Attorneys, however, wanted the chance to defer taxes through a structured settlement, but they also wanted to invest in equities and bonds. Such market-correlated investment options would allow for greater growth than what current interest rates could offer.

Fee Structure Plus is a ground-breaking and most welcome addition to the world of structured settlements, made possible by the landmark Childs decision.

THE BENEFITS

FSP® offers unique features that can provide long-term financial benefits.

Income and Tax-Deferral

By deferring income and taxation, the full amount of the contingency fee may be placed into the program pre-tax, allowing for more growth than if the fee were taken as a lump sum and invested post-taxation.

Market-Related Returns

In addition to tax deferral on contingency fees, deferred funds may be allocated to market-related investment portfolios.

Asset-Class Diversification and Inflation Protection

Fee Structure Plus can help attorneys achieve asset-class diversification to address income, retirement planning, operating expenses, and other financial needs.

Periodic Payment Plans

Periodic payments are designed to deliver the flexibility and customization needed to meet an attorney's specific financial goals.

Cash Availability Option

Contact a member of the Structures team for more information about cash availability within the FSP program.

Management Strategies to Suit Every Need

Attorneys can now select a passive or active investment management approach using a respected trust company or their personal financial advisor. This allows for the investment to work in conjunction with their specific needs and overall wealth management strategy.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Is there a minimum or maximum amount that can be placed into Fee Structure Plus® (FSP)?

The minimum amount for FSP is $100,000.00. There is no maximum.

♦ Can the payee be the law firm?

Yes, the payee can be either the attorney or the law firm. The payee will be reflected in the settlement documents.

Can FSP be used for a claimant in a non-physical injury case (nonqualified settlement)?

Please contact us for use of this program for claimants on non-physical injury cases. Cases will be reviewed on a case by case basis, but FSP can be utilized in certain situations. Please contact us for information on Settlements Plus™, our market-based program for claimants.

Where are the assets funding the Fee Structure Plus payments held?

Upon receipt of the funding amount in Barbados, the assignment company immediately sends funds via wire transfer to a trust company in the United States for custodianship and management. At the completion of the FSP transaction, the assets are held by the US domiciled trust company as the funds' custodian. Additionally, if requested by the attorney, the trust company may transfer the funds to an external financial advisor's platform.

♦ What are the fees for FSP?

The fees for FSP are:

- · One-time assignment fee of $1,000
- · One-time administrative fee of $400
- · Annual FSP Program Fee of 1% of the value of the Fee Structure Plus account each year, taken at the time of account establishment and on or about each anniversary thereafter. This program fee covers the ongoing program administration costs, operating expenses of the assignment company and custodial and administrative services provided by the trust company. It also provides the attorney or law firm with access to the trust company's investment asset allocation models at no additional cost. If investment advisory services by an external financial advisor or active management by the trust company are desired, the fees of the external advisor or the trust company would be added to the fees outlined above.

Can an attorney structure fees with FSP even if his or her client does not select a structured settlement?

Yes, a claimant structure is not necessary. FSP is available for stand-alone attorney fee structures.

♦ Is FSP limited to physical injury cases? No, FSP is available to attorneys for any type of contingency fee case.

Are the assets within FSP accounts protected from creditors of the attorney or law firm?

While the attorney or law firm would be the payee of the future payments, the assets used to fund the FSP payments are owned by the assignee, Structured Assignments, SCC, pursuant to a nonqualified assignment.

Since the attorney and/ or law firm have the right to receive periodic payments but do not have ownership rights in the underlying assets, the assets are not subject to claims of the attorney's or law firm's creditors.

Why is the assignment company located in Barbados?

The Assignment Company is domiciled in Barbados to make use of the benefits of the US-Barbados Tax Treaty to prevent double taxation. More information regarding the use of our assignment company can be found on page 13.

♦ What is the role of a trust company?

A trust company serves as the master custodian and administrator of the FSP program. It is responsible for accounting, tracking, reporting (including tax reporting), and calculations on behalf of the assignment company.

Can the attorney designate beneficiaries?

Yes, the attorney can designate both primary and contingent beneficiaries.

What type of tax reporting is required for FSP?

The trust company, on behalf of the assignment company, will issue a 1099-MISC to the attorney or law firm payee during the year(s) that payments are made. The payments are reported as ordinary income.

♦ Can the attorney view the balances in the FSP account online?

Yes, online view-only access to the account is available.

Do the laws governing ERISA plans as well as other deferred comp plans apply to the FSP program?

No, pursuant to the Childs case, a structured attorney fee payment is viewed as non-employee deferred compensation, not employee compensation (e.g., 401(k)). Further, it falls under Section 83 under the Childs decision and was exempted from the 409A deferred compensation regulations in Notice 2005-1. Copies of the Childs decision and Notice 2005-1 are available upon request.

STRUCTURED ASSIGNMENTS, SCC

Tax deferral of contingency fees is made possible in partnership with Structured Assignments, SCC.

Structured Assignments, SCC was founded in 2010 as an entity for the purpose of accepting nonqualified assignments of periodic payment obligations. It is guided by an esteemed and experienced board of directors, utilizes the Royal Bank of Canada (the largest bank in the Caribbean) for all banking needs, and was established with advice from the renowned law firm Chancery Chambers.

The assignment company is domiciled and managed in Barbados in order to make use of the benefits of the U.S.-Barbados tax treaty. This ensures that the ownership of the funding assets does not trigger double taxation.

An assignment company organized as a United States corporation would generally be subject to tax on the receipt of a payment for assignment of a periodic payment obligation — fee for services rendered — as well as any interest gained from the assets it purchased and owned. Further, it would not have any offsetting deductions upon the purchase of the funding assets until and as payments were made to the holder of the assets, such as when economic performance occurs. While there is an exception for this under Section 130 of the Internal Revenue Code, it is limited to periodic payment obligations that are tax exempt under Section 104(a)(1) or 104(a)(2) of the Code. Barbados is a highly regulated jurisdiction with a well-established and longstanding tax treaty with the United States that allows for the assignment of payment obligations and asset ownership in a tax-efficient manner.
